SUBJECT: Facilities Space Lease between the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) and New Cingular Wireless PCS, LLC (AT&T)

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approve the Facilities Space Lease between the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and AT&T

PREVIOUS ACTION: January 24, 2014 – The Board of Regents approved the project budget for replacing the sound system within Memorial Stadium and installing Wifi.

September 30, 2013 – A Facilities Space Lease between UNL and US Cellular for placement and operation of wireless communication equipment serving their customers within Memorial Stadium was reported to the Board.

June 8, 2012 – The Board approved a Facilities Space Lease between UNL and Verizon Wireless for placement and operation of wireless communication equipment serving their customers within Memorial Stadium.

EXPLANATION: Since 2011, AT&T has provided their customers with wireless service on the UNL campus, including Memorial Stadium, from their leased cell site on the roof of Oldfather Hall. With the construction of the East Stadium project wireless service within Memorial Stadium has been compromised. Approval of this lease will permit AT&T to provide high-speed, high-quality wireless service for Nebraska football fans through installation of a distributed antenna system inside Memorial Stadium.

The lease is modeled after existing cell provider leases at UNL which were publicly bid in 2005. The base rate for this lease, adjusted for the annual escalation clause, provides annual payment to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln of approximately $37,824. The lease has an initial term of five years.

Members of the public and news media may obtain a copy of the lease in the Office of the University Corporation Secretary, 3835 Holdrege Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68583, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except University holidays.

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approval is requested to merge the Department of Computer and Electronics Engineering with the Department of Electrical Engineering to form the Department of Electrical and Computer Engineering in the College of Engineering at UNL

PREVIOUS ACTION: April 13, 2012 – The Board approved the request to disaggregate seven department-based tracks of the unified Ph.D. in Engineering at UNL into stand-alone Ph.D. degree programs: Architectural Engineering; Biological Engineering; Chemical and Biomolecular Engineering; Civil Engineering; Computer Engineering; Electrical Engineering; and Mechanical Engineering and Applied Mechanics programs

EXPLANATION: The proposed merger will allow two departments who have faced challenges due to size and scale as independent entities to build on their strengths. For example, in the area of research, the ability to integrate the strength in telecommunications in CEEN with the strengths in EE will facilitate current and future research initiatives. The combination of electrical and computer engineering in a single department is common nationwide.

This merger has the endorsement of the faculty in both departments, the dean and other administrators, and the Academic Planning Committee.

This proposal has been reviewed by the Council of Academic Officers.

PROGRAM COSTS: The faculty have stated that additional faculty lines and other resources will be required to allow the new department to succeed in Omaha and Lincoln.

SOURCE OF FUNDS: The College of Engineering and the campus will invest new resources in the department as the department completes a strategic plan and as resources are available. Resources for the new department also are described in the College of Engineering Five Year Strategic Plan.

Description and Purpose of the Proposed Program

The Special Education K-12 Teaching Program is a degree program that has been designed to provide University of Nebraska at Kearney students an opportunity to obtain a Nebraska Teaching Certificate with a field endorsement in Special Education K-12 Teaching. This program would help students develop knowledge and skills in a broad range of disability areas to help them acquire the tools and dispositions necessary to be effective K-12 special education teachers. This proposed program would complement existing subject endorsement programs offered at the University of Nebraska at Kearney in Mild/Moderate Disabilities K-6 and in Mild/Moderate Disabilities 7-12.

Successful completion of this program would provide students the opportunity to obtain the new field endorsement in Special Education K-12 Teaching that has been created by the Nebraska Department of Education, qualifying them to teach special education courses necessary to meet a variety of student learning needs in grade levels K-12. This K-12 field endorsement provides an excellent fit to the grade level organizational patterns and instructional delivery models of many of the University of Nebraska at

Kearney's constituent school districts. (Specific data on the need for this program is provided later in this document.)

Structure and Operation

The Special Education K-12 Teaching Program would come under the auspices of the Department of Teacher Education which is a part of the University of Nebraska at Kearney's College of Education. All professional sequence coursework and special education content coursework would be offered solely in the Teacher Education Department, but the General Studies coursework which is a part of the program would be provided in colleges and departments across campus with content-area expertise in each of the subject areas required for General Studies.

Proposed Curriculum

The goal of this teaching degree program is to provide students with the knowledge and skills to make them effective K-12 Special Education teachers, and to qualify them for a Nebraska Teaching Certificate with a field endorsement in Special Education K-12 Teaching. The curriculum has been designed to meet all UNK General Studies Requirements, Professional Teaching sequence requirements, and Special Education requirements. The content of the Special Education courses in the program has been aligned with specific K-12 Special Education Teaching endorsement requirements promulgated by the Nebraska Department of Education.

This new degree program would conform to the required 120 credit hour maximum for single area teaching endorsements specified through Board of Regents' policies. Of the total 120 credit hours, 46 hours of General Studies courses would be required, as well as 23 hours of Professional Sequence courses and 51 hours of Special Education program-specific coursework aligned with teaching requirements promulgated by the Nebraska Department of Education (including 36 hours of content-specific coursework) designed to help teaching candidates develop knowledge and skills to teach students in all disability areas. (See course sequences and requirements provided in Appendix 1.)

Learning Outcomes with Selected Objectives

All courses in the Teacher Education portion of the course sequence for Special Education K-12 Teaching have been designed to address the priorities and challenges outlined in the College of Education's Conceptual Framework, and have also been designed to provide the skills and dispositions to assure that, upon graduation, all students will demonstrate the specific behaviors depicted in the College's Desired Outcomes which have been derived from the Conceptual Framework.

College of Education Conceptual Framework

Diversity and Global Perspectives

Demographic indicators tell us that student populations are increasingly diverse during the first decade of the 21st century. We perceive this increase in diversity as a benefit, not a disadvantage. Therefore, educators must have an understanding of diversity and the roles various cultures may play in contemporary classrooms. To be exemplary participants in the democratic process, educators and schools must assume the commitment to having a comprehensive and inclusive vision of education for all children.

Central to our professional educational programs is the belief that all students can be successful learners. Their success will depend on the educator's skill in recognizing and understanding individual learning styles and in understanding how cultural perspectives and lifestyle experiences impact learning. This understanding must reach beyond historical information. It must seek actively to negate stereotypes as it moves toward full inclusion of all learners.

Educators must recognize and work toward both quality and equality in public education. They must be skilled in the creation of learning environments that provide a variety of appropriate learning tasks for all students, that reflect respect for all, and that encourage collective responsibility. These skills enable educators to participate fully in a global society. In turn, educators having these skills will facilitate their students' sharing in the richness offered through living and working in the world community without borders. Accordingly, the faculty of the College of Education at the University of Nebraska at Kearney will facilitate the personal and professional development of its graduates through the constant analysis of curricula and materials to prepare them to learn to avoid discriminatory practices and other injurious behaviors. We believe, therefore, that graduates of the University of Nebraska at Kearney will have the necessary preparation to deal effectively and positively with issues of diversity throughout out their careers.

Professional Commitment and Dispositions

Public education is the single unifying institution charged with the transmission of our American heritage and with the preparation of the young for life in our social political democracy. Through their continuing covenant to providing quality education for all, regardless of background or heritage, the public schools help to ensure that young people receive ethical guidance and have access to the knowledge and to the intellectual, technological and social skills needed for productive living in a democratic society. Accordingly, the professional education at the University of Nebraska at Kearney reflects an enduring commitment to high quality public education.

This firm commitment to public education is rooted in a core set of beliefs that define the American democratic experience. The prized values of liberty, equality, and justice give character and dignity to our society. These attributes of the American people are incorporated in the Constitution of the United States and underscore the importance of the individual and the need to protect and nurture diversity. The faculty of the College of Education at the University of Nebraska at Kearney affirms both its belief in our nation's basic democratic values its intention to prepare professionals who will uphold and promote those dispositions in the public schools and communities.

While asserting devotion to long-accepted American democratic values and to an enduring commitment to public education, the faculty of the College of Education is cognizant of the nature and pace of change in American society. The information explosion, the increasing use of and dependency on technology, changing demographics limited resources present complex challenges for public education. Accordingly, the aims of the professional education programs at the University of Nebraska at Kearney are to prepare (1) educators who are lifelong learners; (2) educators who value reflection as a powerful tool for purposeful change; (3) educators who base practice on knowledge and skills and make decisions through collaboration; and (4) educators who are compassionate, caring, and just. To ensure these aims, the College of Education faculty is committed to ongoing assessment and evaluation of its graduates and programs.

Information Technology

As our society changes and embraces a global orientation, it becomes essential for people to be informed about knowledge acquisition, data storage, and how to connect to others outside the community. Technology and its many applications have provided the means to accomplish this global connection. As a result, it has become imperative that educational professionals embrace technological advances and master the nuances.

Educators recognize the importance of technological literacy and the capabilities of technology to facilitate learning and connect students to the larger world. Instructional technologies and applications impact the dissemination of information, inform professional practice and enhance services for students. Thus, it is important for professional educators be conversant with a variety of instructional technologies and their applications and be able to be reflective and discriminating in embracing and mastering appropriate instructional technologies. Not only must professional educators be able to integrate technology with teaching strategies and curriculum design, they must be knowledgeable about legal and ethical uses of information and instructional technologies.

To this end, the professional education programs in the College of Education at the University of Nebraska at Kearney aim to prepare educators who can reflect and make responsible decisions concerning the use of technology as a tool to enhance the learning process.

Requirements for the Degree Program/Special Education K-12 Teaching

The details of course and credit hour requirements for the proposed program of studies are outlined in Appendix 1. As stated previously in the section on Proposed Curriculum, students will complete 46 hours of General Studies coursework, 23 hours of required Professional Sequence courses, and 51 hours of designated Special Education program-specific coursework (including 36 hours of content-specific coursework).

II. REVIEW CRITERIA

A. Centrality to Role and Mission

UNK Mission:

The University of Nebraska at Kearney is a public, residential university committed to be one of the nation's premier undergraduate institutions with excellent graduate education, scholarship, and public service.

UNK Vision:

The University of Nebraska at Kearney will achieve national distinction for a high quality, multidimensional learning environment, engagement with community and public interests, and preparation of students to lead responsible and productive lives in a democratic, multicultural society.

Key to such improvement will be: clear focus on mission imperatives, fidelity to historic core values, and continuous and rigorous self-appraisal or assessment of outcomes.

The proposed Special Education K-12 Teaching Program addresses the University of Nebraska at Kearney's Mission to be a premiere undergraduate institution. This proposed program would add a high quality teaching endorsement program that is clearly aligned with needs reflected in the Nebraska State Department of Education's development of the K-12 Special Education Teaching field endorsement program, thus offering a program of studies for students that is clearly aligned with state needs and priorities, adding to quality programs and services consistent with those offered by premier undergraduate institutions. This proposed program of studies would also meet a clearly-defined need demonstrated by University of Nebraska at Kearney students requesting a K-12 certification program, reflecting a commitment that is consistent with that of a premier undergraduate institution.

This proposed program addresses the University of Nebraska at Kearney's Vision of responding to community and public interests while providing a multidimensional learning environment through two very clear actions. First, by providing a Special Education K-12 Teaching program that has been designed with fidelity to the specific outcomes of the General Studies Program and the College of Education's Conceptual Framework and Desired Outcomes for students while at the same time addressing the specific content-area requirements promulgated by the Nebraska Department of Education. Second, by increasing the University's response to demonstrated student needs for certification as K-12 Special Education teachers while also providing a certification that is a great "fit" to the organizational patterns of many Nebraska schools and Educational Service Unit providers that assign one Special Education teacher to teach students demonstrating all ranges of disabilities at all grade levels of a school district.

B. Evidence of need and Demand

1. Need for the Program

Our program needs analysis is derived from data from two major sources; students enrolled in our undergraduate Special Education program sequences, and students who have applied to our Post-Baccalaureate Program to take additional undergraduate coursework to obtain either initial teacher certification or additional teaching endorsements. Based upon our review of the last five years' data from these two sources, 118 University of Nebraska at Kearney students over the past five years could have benefited from the K-12 Special Education Teaching program.

The data breaks down as follows:

- Six students finishing an undergraduate program over the past five years completed both K-6 and 7-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities endorsements concurrently.
- Twelve (32%) of the 38 students who are presently seeking initial certification in our Post-Baccalaureate Special Education Program have requested K-12 certification.
- A total of 100 of the 285 students who requested certification through our Post-Baccalaureate endorsement program over the last five years (since 2009) requested either a K-12 program or a complimentary grade level program that would result in K-12 certification.
 - 42 students with content area endorsements seeking a SPED endorsement requested a K-12 endorsement
 - 28 Elementary Education endorsed students seeking a SPED endorsement requested a K-12 program
 - 30 students with either K-6 Mild/Moderate Disabilities or 7-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities endorsements sought the other (complimentary) endorsement

Although six students, representing approximately five percent of all graduates, completed both the K-6 and 7-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities endorsements together during their initial teaching certification program, this number represents only a portion of those who would have benefitted from the K-12 Special Education Teaching Program. Additional students who could have benefitted from a K-12 endorsement program during their initial certification program did not choose to undertake both the K-6 and 7-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities endorsements concurrently, usually due to the need to complete two separate programs and the additional coursework associated with this effort, and are likely represented in the numbers of requests for additional certification through the Post-Baccalaureate Program.

2. Current Demand for the Program

We could potentially have been serving up to 118 University of Nebraska at Kearney students in a K-12 teaching field endorsement program. If we average the number of students over the past five years who completed a K-12 program (those who completed both K-6 and 7-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities endorsement programs concurrently) and the number of student requests for a K-12 program (for either a complimentary grade level program or a K-12 program), we find an average of 24 students per year; thus, we project that we would potentially enroll approximately 24 or more students in the K-12 Special Education Teaching Program per year.

Additionally, this proposed program would provide University of Nebraska at Kearney students an opportunity to qualify for the new K-12 Teaching Field Endorsement developed and approved by the Nebraska Department of Education, thus enabling our students to access a field endorsement deemed by the Department to be relevant and important to schools, and to students who wish to teach in Nebraska schools.

3. Anticipated Demand for the Program

Obtaining a Nebraska Teaching Certificate with an endorsement in K-12 Special Education Teaching would help our graduates be more marketable since this endorsement would provide them with skills to teach all disability areas and qualify them for Special Education teaching at both elementary and secondary schools, as well as in K-12 settings where one Special Education teacher is assigned to all grade levels. We anticipate that at least the present number of students outlined in the current demand section would benefit from this program in the future.

C. Required Resources

1. Faculty and Staff Resources

This program will be staffed by assigning coursework to existing faculty members. A listing of current Special Education faculty members and their areas of expertise is:

- Donna Montgomery, Ph.D., Associate Professor—teaching K-12 students with severe to mild disabilities in both self-contained and inclusive settings
- Jeffrey Kritzer, Ph.D., Associate Professor—teaching K-6 ESL students with mild disabilities in self-contained settings
- Jude Cepero, Ph.D., Assistant Professor—teaching 7-12 students with mild disabilities, including behavior disorders, in inclusive settings
- Brian Wojcik, Ph.D., Assistant Professor—teaching K-12 students with severe to mild disabilities in both self-contained and inclusive settings
- Camie West, M.S., Lecturer—teaching K-12 students with severe to mild disabilities in both self-contained and inclusive settings

- Stathene Varvisotis, Ph.D., Lecturer— teaching 7-12 students with mild disabilities, including behavior disorders, in inclusive settings

2. Physical Facilities

This program would be housed within existing facilities in the College of Education that have been dedicated to the Teacher Education Department. Some of the coursework would be offered face-to-face within the classroom facilities of the College of Education, and some of the coursework would be offered online using existing online teaching resources. There is no need to add facilities to support this proposed program of studies.

3. Instructional Equipment and Informational Resources

No new instructional equipment and informational resources would be necessary with the implementation of this program. Program information will be provided by using the usual communication and advertising procedures that are used with all Department programs and services.

4. Budget Projections

Since this program would be staffed by current personnel and would be housed in current facilities, there are no new budget requirements. The program would be entirely supported through the reallocation of existing staff and facilities; the program is sustainable with a minimum of 17 students. For purposes of budget planning we have estimated 24 students per year.

The salary estimates listed on the attached expense form represent an internal strategic reallocation of existing faculty resources (not new money) and the $50,000 estimate for each fiscal year represents a portion of the salary for the existing faculty members since each of them may be reassigned teaching duties in K-12 courses at some time during the academic year. The revenue source estimates on the attached revenue source form are estimates derived from tuition and tuition fees for an average of 24 students per year.

D. Avoidance of Unnecessary Duplication

We recognize that K-12 Mild/Moderate Disabilities subject area endorsement programs are presently offered at Chadron State College, College of St. Mary, Concordia University, Doane College, Hastings College, Midland University, Nebraska Wesleyan University, Peru State College, the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Wayne State College, and York College. Information is not available about whether these programs are transitioning to the new K-12 Special Education Teaching field endorsement; thus, it is difficult to ascertain the extent of duplication that could potentially exist.

In spite of the existence of these subject area endorsement programs, there is a demonstrated need to make this new field endorsement program available to University of Nebraska at Kearney students, and our proposal has been designed to meet existing student needs while also addressing existing state and school district needs. Our intent is not to duplicate programs unnecessarily, but to meet the needs of students who attend the University of Nebraska at Kearney by providing them access to the new field endorsement created through the Nebraska State Department of Education's process for determining what should be important and relevant to Nebraska schools and to the students who plan to teach in Nebraska schools.

E. Consistency with the Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education

The proposed K-12 Special Education Teaching program is consistent with the Comprehensive Plan for Postsecondary Education. It aligns with the main goals of the plan by proposing a program that addresses an educational need of the State of Nebraska, the need to provide teaching candidates with an endorsement in K-12 Special Education Teaching. This program also proposes to efficiently utilize the available resources and to avoid unnecessary duplication of other programs offering similar educational opportunities. It has been designed to meet the defined needs of existing University of Nebraska at Kearney students, and would do so by utilizing existing staff and resources.

TO: The Board of Regents
Academic Affairs

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: Reorganization of the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO) to establish the Nebraska Center for Justice Research in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at UNO

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approval is requested to reorganize the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute at UNO to establish the Nebraska Center for Justice Research in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice at UNO

PREVIOUS ACTION: August 9, 2003 – The Board approved the re-designation of the Juvenile Justice Initiative as the Juvenile Justice Institute in the Department of Criminal Justice in the College of Public Affairs and Community Service at UNO

EXPLANATION: Delinquency, crime, corrections, and justice continue to be important social issues with substantial policy and economic impacts. These social problems and societal responses provide ongoing research and evaluation opportunities as well as drive policy decisions that impact Nebraskans. The two research units that will comprise the proposed Center (UNO's Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and UNO's Juvenile Justice Institute) are Nebraska's only university-based research centers that focus on the study of juvenile delinquency, crime, juvenile justice, and criminal justice. The proposed Center will collaborate with federal, state, and local governmental agencies, as well as with public and private social service organizations, in research, evaluation and implementation related to justice and the promotion of public safety. It is anticipated that the proposed Center annually will provide graduate assistantships for three masters and three doctoral students.

The Council of Academic Officers has reviewed this proposal.

PROGRAM COST: No additional cost. Combines budgets of the two entities.

SOURCE OF FUNDS: For 2014-15, the state-aided budget for the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research is $200,000; the state-aided budget for the Juvenile Justice Institute is $129,434.

2. Purpose and Context for the Center

The Director of the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research (CCJR) and the Director of the Juvenile Justice Institute (JJI) at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO) request the establishment of the Nebraska Center for Justice Research (NCJR). Reorganization of CCJR and JJI as an interdisciplinary research center within the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice will enhance the visibility and prestige of the merged unit. The mission of the Center is to collaborate with federal, state, and local government agencies, as well as with public and private social service organizations, in research, evaluation and implementation related to justice and the promotion of public safety.

A UNO Center for Justice Research is consistent organizationally with other University of Nebraska units such as the Center for Public Affairs Research, the Center on Children, Families, and the Law, and the Public Policy Center. The proposal is for a restructuring of an existing unit and does not include a request for additional funding or staffing. Similar to the School for Criminology and Criminal Justice, the Center for Justice Research would be affiliated with UNO, but have a physical presence on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses. The director of the center would be located in Omaha. The center would contain the Juvenile Justice Institute and, due to JJI's ties to the State Legislature, the director of JJI would be located in Lincoln.

A central goal for the Nebraska Center for Justice Research is to become a nationally-recognized research center producing prominent evaluation and research on juvenile justice, criminal justice, and social justice issues. The goals of the proposed Center are:

- Produce prominent, interdisciplinary research that benefits the local community, benefits Nebraska, and increases UNO's national profile.

The primary goal of the proposed center is to promote public safety, both locally and statewide. Research will focus on reducing crime and delinquency, primarily through the promotion and evaluation of correctional programs that effectively reduce recidivism. Another goal is to assist state justice agencies in lowering the dangerous level of overcrowding in our male correctional facilities. A third goal of the proposed center is to increase UNO's national profile as a research university. The School of Criminology and Criminal Justice is comprised of a large and academically diverse faculty with an extremely active research program, as well as considerable community activity in the form of partnerships with local, regional, and national organizations focused on crime, crime control, and the administration of justice. The school is ranked among the top 20 programs of its kind in the most recent report by U.S. News & World Report. The school ranks highly because faculty are very productive in academic research and publishing and their work is cited frequently in criminology journals. Housing an interdisciplinary research center will serve to further enhance the research and publishing ability of SCCJ faculty through collaborations with other University of Nebraska researchers.

- Secure external funding from government agencies and private foundations.

This Center will serve to coordinate the efforts of University of Nebraska researchers to attract external funding to investigate justice initiatives. The faculty of the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute have a history of attracting funding from agencies such as the U. S. Department of Justice, the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, and private donors. Interdisciplinary collaborations facilitated by the center will enhance the ability of faculty to continue to procure external funding.

- Support state justice initiatives through research, evaluation, training, technical assistance and policy guidance.

The Center will continue the efforts of the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute by serving as the primary state resource for services such as research, evaluation, training, and technical assistance. The directors of CCJR and JJI work directly with state and local agencies such as the Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services, the Office of Probation Administration, and the Nebraska State Patrol. The directors provide training on evaluation, outcome measurement, and evidence-based practices to subgrantees of federal funding initiatives, and, as a result, have statewide impact. Moreover, the Juvenile Justice Institute, which was formed as a result of a Legislative appropriation in 2002, provides technical assistance and research support to the Legislature and to numerous state and local juvenile justice agencies.

- Fund, train, and mentor undergraduate and graduate students through direct involvement in research projects.

The Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute consistently fund graduate students through their research activities. Occasionally, undergraduate researchers receive funding support as well. For example, the units supported nine graduate and undergraduate UNO and UNL students in the summer of 2013 and consistently support approximately six masters and PhD students each academic semester.

3. Need and Demand for the Center

Delinquency, crime, corrections, and justice continue to be important social issues that have substantial policy and economic impacts in the state of Nebraska. In the 2013 Legislative session, LB561 substantially revised the official reaction to delinquents and delinquency. Currently, the Judiciary Committee is working on legislation to revise our official reaction to young adult criminals, primarily as a response to a state correctional system that is at 152% capacity at the time this proposal was written. These social problems and societal responses not only provide fodder for ongoing research and evaluation, but also drive policy decisions that have a social and economic impact on all Nebraskans. The need for quality policy guidance, research, and evaluation has never been more salient. UNO's current infrastructure of research units within the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice provide an excellent foundation for an interdisciplinary research center addressing justice-related issues. Currently, the two research units that will comprise the proposed Center (UNO's Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and UNO's Juvenile Justice Institute) are Nebraska's only university-based research centers that focus on the study of juvenile delinquency, crime, juvenile justice, and criminal justice, so the proposed Center will not overlap with the substantive research areas of existing research centers or institutes.

Enhancing opportunities for collaboration through an interdisciplinary research center is particularly salient at a time when Nebraska's juvenile and adult justice systems are moving away from a pure deterrence/incapacitation model of dealing with offenders and moving towards a model of risk assessment and service provision for juvenile and adult offenders. Justice agencies and their employees must understand the role of data and research, risk assessments, evidence-based practices, and the role of treatment and therapy. Research, evaluation, and training are needed across these interdisciplinary skill sets. The proposed Center will be well-designed to address the needs of a twenty-first century system of justice.

4. Adequacy of Resources

The Consortium for Crime and Justice Research and the Juvenile Justice Institute currently provide adequate capacity for the proposed Center. No additional resources will be required to make the transition.

- Space

CCJR resides in a recently renovated, 1,000-sq. ft. space within the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice in the College of Public Affairs and Community Service building on the UNO campus. The new area provides office space for the Director of CCJR, Program Coordinator, Project Coordinator, administrative staff as well as additional work space for JJI and other colleagues and students. The space also includes a technologically-equipped conference room. JJI is housed primarily on the UNL campus in the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice located in Nebraska Hall. In addition to office space for the Director of JJI, there are offices for staff and students in Lincoln.

- Equipment and Facilities

No additional equipment or facilities will be needed for the proposed Center outside of the current computer and technology equipment already in use by CCJR and JJI.

- Faculty and Staff

No additional faculty will be required due to the diverse group of faculty affiliates who have committed to partnering with the Center. The State of Nebraska provides annual funding via a budget line item for JJI that funds administrative staff. Other staffing needs are based on project necessity and funded by those projects. Additional staff will be included as future project needs dictate. There are currently no additional staff needed for the proposed Center.

5. Organizational Structure and Administration

Dr. Ryan E. Spohn, Director of the Consortium for Crime and Justice Research at the University of Nebraska at Omaha will serve as the Center Director. He will oversee the Center's day-to-day fiscal and management activities, take the lead role in promoting and coordinating interdisciplinary research, serve as principal investigator on grant and contract-funded research, mentor and train graduate and undergraduate students on research projects, and maintain an academic research agenda. Anne M. Hobbs, J.D., Ph.D., will serve as the Director of the Juvenile Justice Institute within the proposed Center. She will oversee the day-to-day fiscal and management activities of JJI, serve as principal investigator on grant and contract-funded research, mentor and train graduate and undergraduate students on research projects, and maintain an active research agenda. A program coordinator will be located in the UNO office and will oversee the process of securing external funding and implementation of major research/evaluation/implementation projects. A project coordinator will split time between UNL and UNO and will assist Dr. Spohn and Dr. Hobbs in project administration, grant writing, and the development of reports. Finally, an administrative associate will be located in the UNO office and will manage the day-to-day operations and administrative duties of the Center.

6. Partnerships with Business

Due to the focus on juvenile justice and criminal justice research, evaluation, and training, the Center would maintain existing partnerships and develop new partnerships with government entities and social service agencies. Dr. Spohn and Dr. Hobbs work in partnership with government entities such as the Nebraska Legislature's Judicial Committee, the Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services, Nebraska's Office of Probation Administration, as well as local diversion agencies. Partnerships also have been developed with local social service agencies in Omaha, Lincoln, and other locations across the state.

7. Collaborations with Higher Education Institutions External to the University

A primary focus of the Nebraska Center for Justice Research is to promote research collaborations in juvenile justice, criminal justice, and behavior health that will increase public safety, reduce recidivism, and improve the cost effectiveness of community corrections and institutional corrections in Nebraska. Dr. Spohn and Dr. Hobbs have research collaborations with UNL Center for Children, Families and the Law (CCFL), the University of Nebraska Law-Psychology Program, and the Rural Futures Institute. Moreover, a call for faculty affiliates for the new center attracted positive responses from ten faculty/directors at UNL, two faculty/directors at UNMC, and two faculty/directors at UNK. These faculty affiliates represent units such as the Rural Futures Institute, Psychology (UNL), the Nebraska Center for Research on Children, Youth, Families and Schools (UNL), the College of Law (UNL), the Bureau of Sociological Research (UNL), the Public Policy Center, (UNL), the College of Public Health (UNMC), the Center for Health Policy (UNMC), Political Science (UNK), and Criminal Justice (UNK). The proposed center will serve as a hub of communication regarding external and internal funding opportunities to faculty affiliates at UNO, UNMC, UNL, and UNK.

8. Constituencies to be Served

The proposed Center will serve as the primary research and evaluation resource for the Nebraska State Legislature and state and local juvenile and adult justice agencies. The Center also will provide students with the opportunity to participate in research. In addition to providing funding for research assistants, the Center will provide training and mentoring in research and evaluation across a wide variety of justice areas.

9. Anticipated Outcomes, Significance, and Specific Measures of Success

A number of outcomes are anticipated as a result of the creation of the interdisciplinary Center for Justice Research:

- a. The Center will work with the State Legislature, criminal justice agencies, and correctional units in determining effective policy and practice for utilizing cost-effective evidence-based practices to reduce recidivism.
- b. It will establish a national reputation as a progressive center for applied research on "what works" in juvenile and adult justice.
- c. The Center will serve as a central hub for communication and coordination of interdisciplinary research on justice issues among University of Nebraska faculty.
- d. The reputation and stature of UNO's School of Criminology and Criminal Justice will grow proportionate to the marked increase in the number of publications, the growth of faculty reputations, the increased competitiveness of graduates in the job market, and the increasing competitiveness of faculty research and applied grant applications in justice domains.

The metrics to measure success in meeting the outcome goals include the following:

- a. Based on the current submission rate for grants seeking external funding and private research grant funding pursue an annual increase in this submission rate.
- b. Based on the current rate of funding from federal and private research grants pursue an annual increase in the rate of funding.
- c. Based on the current number of contracts for trainings, research, and evaluations for local and state agencies pursue an annual increase in these contracts.
- d. Based on the current number of high profile research reports and academic publications pursue an annual increase in these reports and publications.
- e. Based on the current number of graduate research assistants supported, trained, and mentored pursue an annual increase in the number of graduate research assistants supported, trained, and mentored.

10. Centrality to the Role and Mission of the Institution

The creation of the proposed Nebraska Center for Justice Research will support the following elements of the three goals of the strategic plan of the University of Nebraska at Omaha:

- Goal 1C: “Offer programs to enhance student awareness of community and global issues, foster critical thinking about social issues, ... [and] develop community leaders with the skills to respond to local, national and global issues.” Located in an academic unit, the Center will engage students directly and indirectly in its research, developing their understanding of important current justice issues.
- Goal 2B1: “Have and promote nationally or internationally recognized programs of excellence.” Center status will enhance the national reputation and visibility of both CCJR and the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice.
- Goal 2C2: “Increase the resources provided to faculty to submit a greater number of successful proposals for external research.” This proposal will serve as a direct conduit to funding agencies for funded research. CCJR has already been successful in securing funding from a variety of agencies, and this proposal will further facilitate progress towards this goal.
- Goal 3B2: “UNO faculty, staff and students will apply for and be granted external funding for doing ‘scholarship of engagement.’” Most of the research of CCJR classifies as engaged scholarship, so this goal is already being achieved.

11. Alignment with the University of Nebraska Strategic Framework

The creation of the proposed Nebraska Center for Justice Research will support the fourth and fifth overarching goals of the University of Nebraska Strategic Planning Framework:

- Goal 4A: “Increase external support for research and scholarly activity.” The Center faculty will continue to aggressively pursue external research funding opportunities from federal funding agencies, as well as state and local agency contracts.
- Goal 4C: “Encourage and support interdisciplinary, intercampus, inter-institutional and international collaboration.” As described in detail in Section 6 of this proposal, a fundamental goal of the proposed Center is to facilitate collaborations across disciplines both within UNO and across the University of Nebraska. Faculty affiliates have been identified across all four institutions and the proposed Center will serve as a hub to facilitate communication regarding research and funding opportunities.

- Goal 4E: “Focus resources on areas of strength in research where the university has the opportunity for regional, national and international leadership and in areas of strategic importance to the health and economic strength of Nebraska.” The proposed Center will build on the strength of UNO’s nationally-ranked and internationally-recognized School of Criminology and Criminal Justice in serving as a center of research for improving juvenile justice and criminal justice practice at local, state, and national levels. Due to the cost of institutional corrections in particular, and correctional practices in general, the overcrowding of Nebraska’s correctional system, and the importance of public safety for Nebraska citizens, juvenile justice and criminal justice are areas of strategic importance to the health and economic strength of Nebraska.
- Goal 5A: “Support economic growth, health, and quality of life through policy initiatives consistent with university mission.” The proposed Center will work closely with the Nebraska Legislature and the Judicial Committee, in particular, to use data and research evidence to promote public policy that is supportive of Nebraska’s economic growth, health, and quality of life.
- Goal 5E: “Collaborate with the public and private sectors to build successful regional, multistate, international linkages.” The Center would maintain existing partnerships and develop new partnerships with government entities and social service agencies. Dr. Spohn and Dr. Hobbs work in partnership with government entities such as the Nebraska Legislature’s Judicial Committee, the Nebraska Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services, Nebraska’s Office of Probation Administration, as well as local diversion agencies. Dr. Spohn and Dr. Hobbs also are currently developing research projects in criminal justice with a multistate focus. Partnerships also have been developed with local social service agencies in Omaha, Lincoln, and other locations across the state.

12. Potential for the Program to Contribute to Society and Economic Development

Justice issues permeate our society and have a huge impact on state and local budgets. Public safety also has an important effect on the ability to attract new business enterprises and grow existing businesses. The proposed Nebraska Center for Justice Research has the potential to make an immediate impact on the use of justice programs that are cost effective and effective at reducing recidivism and promoting public safety. There is potential for the Center to have an immediate impact on public policy through efforts to use research and expert knowledge to inform the Nebraska Legislature. Through local and state trainings, the Center also will promote knowledge of effective practices and how to implement these practices. Given the costs of building new correctional facilities, the Center could promote enormous cost-savings for the state if it serves as a resource for assisting the juvenile and adult criminal justice systems in supervising and treating offenders in the community in a safe, effective manner and reduce the economic and human losses due to crime. Research and evaluation findings from Nebraska juvenile and adult justice agencies also will be disseminated to researchers and practitioners in other states to improve the functioning and outcomes of justice agencies.

13. Consistency with the Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education

The Center will aim to further important goals and strategies of the Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education developed by the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education. The Commission calls for collaboration and partnerships among the state's public postsecondary institutions to improve efficiency and the quality of products through a sharing of expertise and resources. The proposed Center will function with the explicit goal of enhancing research, evaluation and training in the areas of juvenile and adult criminal justice through partnerships and collaboration among Nebraska's universities, state justice agencies, and non-profit agencies promoting juvenile and criminal justice.

Salaries/benefits (combined) for director, faculty and staff are increased 1.5% each year. Benefits calculated at 28% per year.

Salaries for graduate assistants are also increased by 1.5% each year,

General operating expenses are an estimate based on FY 2012 & 2013 spending and increased by 5% each year. Travel and telecommunications costs are included in this category.

“Other” expenses include tuition for graduate research assistants, consultants, funding of research projects by faculty affiliates, and pass-through funds to sub-grantees. The Transformation Project currently has a high level of consultant expenses as it expands into segregation units, the women’s correctional facility, and youth correctional facility, but will drop thereafter, explaining the large drop in “other” expenses from FY2015 to FY2016.

Annual increases in revenue are conservatively estimated at 3%.

Not all sponsored funding has provided returns in F&A for a variety of reasons.

A review of past F&A returns indicates that the unit has received about 2% in F&A from sponsored funding, so this rough estimate was used to project F&A moving forward.

The Transformation Project funding is funding from a private donor to the NU Foundation to fund a transitional program that CCJR coordinates within the Nebraska Department of Correctional Services.

TO: The Board of Regents
Academic Affairs

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: Creation of a Bachelor of Science degree in Gerontology in the Department of Gerontology in the College of Public Affairs and Community Service at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO)

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approval is requested to create a Bachelor of Science degree in Gerontology in the Department of Gerontology in the College of Public Affairs and Community Service at UNO

PREVIOUS ACTION: September 14, 2012 – A Memorandum of Understanding between UNL and UNO providing an administrative restructuring that formalized the role of the Human Sciences Ph.D. specializations in Child, Youth and Family Studies and Gerontology in the cooperative Ph.D. program was reported to the Board of Regents

September 14, 2012 – A Memorandum of Understanding between UNL and UNO providing the establishment of three joint programs (Juris Doctorate and Master of Arts in Social Gerontology; Juris Doctorate and Graduate Certificate in Gerontology; and Master of Legal Studies and Master of Arts in Social Gerontology) between existing programs in the College of Law at UNL, Department of Gerontology and UNO, and Graduate Studies at UNL was reported to the Board of Regents

EXPLANATION: The proposed undergraduate program focuses on the study of physical, psychological and social aspects of aging. Students will be prepared to work with older adults in businesses and community agencies, senior living communities and/or prepared to pursue professional or graduate school. Knowing how to work with the increasing numbers of people 65 and older and their families will be key for those pursuing careers in health care, long-term care administration and community services. The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) anticipates that in the next ten to twenty years, high job growth areas will include health care and social services. Based on the interest in gerontology education established by the Bachelor of General Studies (B.G.S.) concentration, undergraduate certificate and minor, UNO anticipates sufficient enrollment in the B.S in Gerontology to maintain a viable undergraduate program.

This proposal has been reviewed by the Council of Academic Officers.

PROGRAM COST: $126,000 (2014-2015)

SOURCE OF FUNDS: Reallocation of existing dollars and Program of Excellence (POE) funds

Degree Proposal
Bachelor of Science in Gerontology
Department of Gerontology
College of Public Affairs and Community Service

Descriptive Information

- The University of Nebraska at Omaha
- Bachelor of Science in Gerontology
- No other undergraduate degree programs in this field are offered by this institution
- CIP code: 30:11
- Administrative Unit for the Program: Department of Gerontology, College of Public Affairs and Community Service
- Delivery site and mode of delivery: On-campus. Courses are also available to students to take on-line.
- Proposed date of initiation: Spring 2015

1. Description and Purpose of the Proposed Program

The proposed program is a four-year baccalaureate degree focused on the study of the physical, psychological and social aspects of aging. Students enrolling in an undergraduate degree program in gerontology will be prepared to work directly with older adults in businesses and community agencies, senior living communities and/or education beyond the bachelors level.

Currently, students are limited in their pursuit of an education in gerontology throughout the University of Nebraska system. Undergraduates on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses can enroll in a minor or certificate in gerontology that consists of 18 credit hours. For those wanting more knowledge about the aging process, the Bachelor of General Studies (BGS) with a concentration in gerontology also is available. Students complete 30 credit hours of gerontology in addition to their general education courses and other required courses. In addition to taking courses on campus, students have been able to pursue the BGS Gerontology concentration on-line since 2012. The BGS has been an attractive option for non-traditional (21 years+) students seeking to continue their education in gerontology. However, for traditional age students (those under 21 years of age), the BGS is not their first option. Establishing a degree in gerontology that is available to persons of all ages is an appropriate next step. Since the BGS degree is open only to students over the age of 21, the proposed program will provide an undergraduate option for all students.

For those wanting more knowledge about aging, the 120 credit hour Bachelor of Science degree in Gerontology will afford students the opportunity to acquire in-depth knowledge about the aging experience that goes beyond the minor or certificate offering. In addition to the classroom experience, students also will have the opportunity to apply the knowledge they have acquired by participating in a three-credit hour practicum experience in the community. Practicum experiences include work in such places as retirement communities, adult day care programs, nursing homes, geriatric assessment centers, area agencies on aging and funeral homes.

The purpose of the bachelors degree in gerontology is to prepare students to gain a rich understanding of the challenges and opportunities that face an aging population. The competencies of the degree are:

- 1) Demonstrate the ability to understand the physical, psychological and social changes associated with aging;
- 2) Demonstrate the ability to communicate the major social programs related to aging including Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid and Health Care Reform;
- 3) Demonstrate knowledge of programs and services specific to an aging population; and
- 4) Demonstrate the ability to communicate verbally and in writing in a clear, concise, and coherent manner.

2. Program of Study

The courses available to support a Bachelor of Science in Gerontology include:

Each area of concentration will consist of fifteen or more credit hours devoted to a specific area of concentration and the other hours identified with advice and support of the departmental advisor. Students who intend to work in the business sector or the non-profit sector or who are interested in public policy will take courses which provide them with a general understanding of the aging process. These students will pursue a minor or minors in another discipline rather than selecting one of the concentrations listed below. The courses listed above are all currently approved through the Course Catalog Maintenance System (CCMS) with the exception of the biology of aging.

3. Faculty, staff and other resources

The courses listed are currently being offered on the Omaha, Lincoln and online campuses (with the exception of the Biology of Aging). As demand for the degree grows, we envision offering more sections of select courses, especially those required for the degree and cross-listed in other departments.

Expenses, 2014-2015

- 1.0 FTE Assistant Professor to teach 4 courses annually in the area of the biology of aging - conduct research, and do outreach. Supported through Programs of Excellence funding (POE) that is a permanent state-aided line.....$76,000
- 1.0 FTE Advisor to support degree and non-degree seeking students at the undergraduate level. This person also will be responsible for student recruitment$50,000*

*The advisor position currently is funded. The responsibilities of this position (practicum supervision and advising certificate students) will be assumed by our instructor (based in Lincoln) and other faculty.

Additional faculty support: The remaining courses would continue to be taught by existing faculty. Any additional courses would be taught by adjunct faculty members.

Physical facilities: The program would be housed in the Department of Gerontology within the College of Public Affairs and Community Service building on the Omaha campus. The department has requested additional space from the Dean’s office to allow for the new faculty member to have office space in the faculty suite.

Instructional equipment and informational resources: The existing resources for the department are sufficient at this time.

4. Evidence of Need and Demand: Enrollment Projections

Need for the program

The aging of the population is upon us. 10,000 people turn 65 years of age and older in the country each day (US Census Bureau). By 2050, the US Census predicts there will be 88 million people 65 years of age and older living in the United States. This is parallel to the aging phenomenon that is taking place worldwide.

Knowing how to work with this segment of the population and their families will be key for those pursuing careers in health care, long-term care administration and community services. This is especially relevant for states like Nebraska where future requirements for licensed nursing home administrators will include a bachelors degree in a related area. In offering the degree, UNO will be well-positioned to train students to meet this future need.

With regard to Long-Term Care, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) anticipates that in the next ten to twenty years, high job growth areas will include health care and social services. This increase is being fueled by the aging of the population. BLS also suggests that the demand for persons educated in aging is growing at faster than average rate when compared to other occupations. The same generation (baby boomers) that fueled the need for child care workers in the 1950's and 60's now is fueling the need for persons with strong backgrounds in the study of aging.

Student credit hour (SCH) production in gerontology courses has shown steady growth over the last five years.

Enrollment – SCH 2008-2013

Fall/Spring	Academic Year SCH
2008-2009	4,231
2009-2010	5,178
2010-2011	5,243
2011-2012	5,753
2012-2013	6,184

Anticipated program demand

Since the inception of the Department of Gerontology in 1973, over 1,070 students have completed a certificate, masters or doctoral degrees in our department. The growing number of students expressing an interest in gerontology is evident by the growing numbers in the minor (offered both in Omaha and Lincoln) in 2008. The minor, like the certificate and the BGS concentration afford students the opportunity to gain knowledge of aging. As of the fall 2013 semester, there are 20 students pursuing the BGS concentration in gerontology, 94 students pursuing the minor on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses and 65 students pursuing the undergraduate certificate in gerontology on both campuses.

Enrollment projections for the Bachelor of Science in Gerontology include the following:

AY 2014-2015	10 students in the BS program
AY 2015-2016	15 students in the BS program
AY 2016-2017	20 students in the BS program

5. Partnerships with Business, Public and Nonprofit Organizations

The Department of Gerontology has a strong and rich relationship with the community through its advisory board and its relationship with profit and not for profit aging agencies.

Members of our advisory board include representatives from:

Home Instead Senior Care
Union Pacific Railroad
Baird Holm Law Firm
University of Nebraska Medical Center – Geriatrics
Creighton University – College of Nursing
Nebraska Health Care Association
Vetter Health Services
Suzan Karrer Rohrig, Architectural Firm
Blue Cross Blue Shield of Nebraska

These relationships have allowed us to reach out to a larger audience and have enabled us to secure additional funding for such projects as our online programming and scholarships for undergraduate and graduate students.

In addition, our relationships with community organizations in Omaha and across the state include:

Area Agencies on Aging throughout Nebraska
Nebraska State Unit on Aging
AARP Nebraska
Area long-term care facilities, assisted and independent living communities, and hospitals – both acute and sub-acute.
Home Care Agencies (Non-medical and medical)
Hospice Agencies

6. Collaboration within the University

Currently, the department enjoys a good working relationship with several units on the Omaha, Lincoln and Medical Center campuses. Formalized agreements are in place with UNL's College of Law, College of Education and Human Sciences and the Department of Interior Design in the College of Architecture. Additionally, the department works with UNMC College of Nursing staff and students. As a multi-campus program, we have solid relationships within the University of Nebraska system.

7. Collaboration with Higher Education Institutions External to the University

Several of the area community colleges offer an introductory course in gerontology. Institutions in Nebraska offer programming to prepare students to meet the minimum requirements to be a nursing home administrator. At this time, there is not a requirement for nursing home administrators to have bachelors degrees to be licensed in Nebraska. This currently is under examination by the State of Nebraska Nursing Home licensing board. As a department we are actively working to be prepared for this demand in the coming years by offering the on-campus bachelors degree and, ultimately, the online bachelors degree.

8. Centrality to Role and Mission of the Institution

The three goals of UNO drive the development of this undergraduate degree in gerontology.

Goal 1: UNO will be recognized as a student-centered metropolitan university. The establishment of the BS in gerontology will be of benefit to those students seeking knowledge and experience working with a diverse aging population. Additionally, the BS in Gerontology will provide students additional opportunities to work with aging service providers in Omaha. This will serve to inform students planning to establish careers in aging, particularly in our community.

Goal 2: UNO will be recognized for its academic excellence as a leading metropolitan university. UNO is already unique among metropolitan universities in the scope of its Gerontology educational programs; its statewide mandate enables UNO to offer Gerontology courses on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses as well as online. The BS in Gerontology will enhance UNO's ability to compete nationally with leading Universities in the field already offering an undergraduate degree in Gerontology, such as the University of Southern California, the University of South Florida, and the University of Massachusetts, Boston.

Goal 3: UNO will be recognized for its outstanding engagement with the urban, regional, national, and global communities. Through its statewide mandate, the Department of Gerontology has worked in partnership with health care and long-term care professionals, aging service providers, and policy planners in the public and private sectors throughout Nebraska to address the needs of an aging population. These partnerships also have enabled our undergraduate students to engage these issues, particularly through our Certificate program. The BS in Gerontology will further enhance this engagement for our students on a national and international level. Gerontology majors will have increased opportunities for service and research, with Gerontology faculty, and with our colleagues in the United States and around the world. These include increased international study opportunities for undergraduate students at UNO's sister institutions, such as the University of Agder in Norway.

9. Consistency with the University of Nebraska Strategic Framework

As the primary provider of gerontological education in the state of Nebraska, UNO's Department of Gerontology is ideally positioned to advance the mission and strategic plan of the University of Nebraska system as it works to invest in Nebraska's future. We accomplish this investment in a number of ways. Our Department offers students courses both in class and on-line, interdisciplinary endeavors within and across the NU System, fieldwork placement in preparing students from all disciplines, and service learning opportunities. We provide technical assistance work with such state entities as the Nebraska State Unit on Aging, the eight Area Agencies on Aging, and the Nebraska Department of Corrections. Through these efforts, we are addressing the challenges and opportunities of a statewide aging population.

Department of Gerontology efforts to meet NU Strategic Framework Goals: The Baby Boom population, persons born between 1946 through 1964, are leading the charge for the further development of programming focused on the aging experience. The aging of this unique and diverse cohort will represent a rapid increase in the number of persons 65 years of age and older from 40 million in 2010 to 88 million in 2050, based on data from the US Administration on Aging and the US Census Bureau (2010). Indeed, a population in which one in five persons will be 65 and older suggests many disciplines will be working with older adults. In Nebraska, the Center for Public Affairs Research estimates that the number of persons 65 and older will increase by 157,000 in the next 20 years compared to a modest increase of 117,000 that took place during the previous 60 years (from 1950 – 2010). What is noteworthy about this increase is that for the first time in history the increase in the number of older adults is greater than any other age group in the state.

Access and affordability: Since our establishment in 1972, we have prepared over 1,070 students at the undergraduate and graduate (includes MA and PhD) levels to work for and with older adults. Our students have included traditional and non-traditional students seeking a certificate, minor or graduate degree in gerontology. For those who are faced with financial difficulty we are able to provide scholarships (thanks to the generosity of private benefactors) based on need and academic achievement to ensure students are able to continue their education in gerontology at the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

Engagement with the state, and accountability to stakeholders: The contributions of the department are being made through course offerings on the Omaha and Lincoln campuses, interdisciplinary endeavors with such diverse disciplines as Criminal Justice, Interior Design, Family Studies, and Social Work. Additionally, collaborative relationships with the Nebraska State Unit on Aging, Nebraska Department of Corrections, AARP, the Alzheimer's Association – Midlands and Great Plains Chapter, and UNMC's Division of Geriatrics and Gerontology and UNMC's College of Nursing have allowed for a stronger presence of the department in meeting its statewide mission set forth by the Board of Regents.

10. Avoidance of Unnecessary Duplication

UNO, having established its Gerontology program more than 40 years ago, already is recognized as having one of the top programs in our region, along with the University of Kansas and Iowa State University. However, neither Kansas nor Iowa State offer a Bachelors degree in Gerontology. Thus, UNO has a unique opportunity, with the BS in Gerontology, to offer an undergraduate degree program that currently is unavailable to Nebraska residents, as well as residents in contiguous states.

There is one other institution in the state offering programming in aging studies. Concordia University in Seward offers a BA in gerontology and an MA in gerontology. The Concordia University aging studies program has no permanent faculty and is overseen by faculty in other departments. UNO, on the other hand, is well-established and respected in Omaha, Lincoln and throughout the state.

11. Consistency with the Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education: how this program would enhance relevant statewide goals for education.

The Comprehensive Statewide Plan for Postsecondary Education is (excerpted): “built upon the foundation of existing postsecondary educational institutions within our state, the current and projected demographics of the state, the economic and political realities of the state, and the state’s constitution and statutes.”

The B.S. degree in Gerontology at UNO is fully aligned with the statewide goals for education articulated in this vision statement.

- Faculty, staff, and other resources. The B.S. in Gerontology at UNO utilizes primarily existing resources, in terms of faculty support, physical facilities, instructional equipment, and informational resources. New expenses, such as an assistant professor to teach courses in the biology of aging, are covered by a new POE commitment.
- Evidence of need and demand. Population aging (described in item nine) is a particularly acute need in UNO’s service area. Nebraska and Iowa rank among the 10 states with the highest proportions of residents 65 and older, and 85 and older. The need for students trained in the study of aging will continue to increase, particularly over the next two decades, as the members of the baby boom generation become seniors. The steady growth of the Gerontology minor and undergraduate certificate programs at UNO and UNL demonstrate rising student demand for the comprehensive knowledge in this emerging field that a bachelors program can offer.
- Centrality to the role and mission of the institution. UNO’s Board of Regent’s approved mission is not only to serve as the primary unit within the University of Nebraska system for urban-oriented programs, but also to assume statewide responsibility for programs such as Gerontology. By providing more comprehensive knowledge in the area of aging, the B.S. degree in Gerontology will enhance UNO’s preparation of students to address the needs of an aging population (physical, psychological, and social) throughout the State of Nebraska.
- Consistency with the University of Nebraska Strategic Framework. The B.S. in Gerontology, and the enhanced capacity it will bring to the department will serve to strengthen our existing partnerships within and across the NU system (including the UNL College of Law, College of Education and Human Sciences, and College of Architecture; UNMC’s Division of Gerontology and Geriatrics and College of Nursing) and with other public stakeholders such as the Nebraska State Unit on Aging, Nebraska’s eight Area Agencies on Aging, and the Nebraska Department of Corrections.

- Avoidance of Unnecessary Duplication. Finally, the B.S. in Gerontology provides UNO the opportunity to offer a degree program in an emerging field of study, one that is currently unavailable not only to undergraduate students in Nebraska, but also to students in neighboring states. This enables UNO not only to fulfill an unmet need; but also to provide the University another means to recruit undergraduate students throughout the region. In this way, the proposed degree also is aligned with the enrollment goals of UNO and the NU system.

A reasonable time limit [~~of usually~~ five (5) minutes] shall be placed upon each individual appearance before the Board, and no more than thirty (30) minutes shall be allowed for public comment, unless a majority of the quorum present shall extend such time limit. The Chairperson shall have the right to prohibit multiple appearances by persons presenting needlessly repetitious or redundant testimony.

5.2 Matters the Board Will Not Hear.

- 5.2.1 The Board will not hear appeals from decisions made by duly authorized members of the faculty or administration, or duly authorized boards, committees or other panels within the university concerning student academic or disciplinary matters or personnel matters, unless there is an appeal procedure which expressly specifies that the decision may be appealed to the Board, and all previous steps within the appeal process have been completed.

TO: The Board of Regents Addendum IX-B-2
Business Affairs

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: FY 2015-16 and FY 2016-17 University of Nebraska Biennial Operating Budget Request

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approve the FY 2015-16 and FY 2016-17 University of Nebraska Biennial Operating Budget Request guidelines.

PREVIOUS ACTION: May 30, 2014 – A budget presentation was provided to the Board of Regents Business Affairs Committee.
March 21, 2014 – A budget presentation was provided to the Board of Regents Business Affairs Committee.

EXPLANATION: The University of Nebraska’s 2015-17 biennial operating budget request plans to seek state support for core University operations and strategic initiatives that will help to attract talent, meet workforce needs and grow Nebraska’s economy. The biennial budget requests are required to be submitted to the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education (CCPE) by August 15, 2014 and the Governor and Legislature by September 15, 2014.

Per historical practice, the university will not submit a formal salary request until after collective bargaining on the UNO and UNK campuses has concluded. For illustrative purposes, the university’s request shows scenarios for salary increases ranging from zero to three percent.

The proposed request seeks approximately one percent funding increases for core University operations, including health insurance, information technology support, utilities and building operation and maintenance.

The request also includes support for strategic investments in talent enhancement, targeted faculty and staff salary increases to help catch-up to peer and/or market salary ranges; NU’s Programs of Excellence, high-priority academic programs across the four campuses; Collegebound Nebraska, the financial aid program that promises full tuition assistance for low-income students; and the “college pipeline” commitments the university made to the White House earlier this year as part of a national initiative to expand college access and success among underrepresented students.

In addition, the request includes a $20 million economic and workforce development initiative that would focus on areas critical to Nebraska and its economy. With these targeted investments, the University would continue to leverage the resources and expertise of our four campuses for the benefit of the state. Potential areas of investment include:

- Nebraska Innovation Campus. Public and private investments in Innovation Campus already have provided a critical jump-start, including renovation of the 4-H Building into a state-of-the-art conference center. Additional investments could support the relocation of UNL's Department of Food Science & Technology to Innovation Campus, which will expand capacity for faculty and student activities and foster new opportunities for joint food science research projects between the university and ConAgra Foods, the first private collaborator at Innovation Campus.
- The Peter Kiewit Institute, a collaboration between the University of Nebraska at Omaha College of Information Science & Technology and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Engineering. PKI's strategic plan calls for significant growth in enrollment, faculty, research and other areas to better meet the needs of businesses in Omaha and across Nebraska. State support would leverage the $800,000 investment for PKI that the Board approved in May as part of NU's 2014-15 budget.
- The Health Science Education Complex, a collaboration between the University of Nebraska Medical Center and the University of Nebraska at Kearney that will expand UNMC nursing and allied health programs on the UNK campus. The facility will create space for hundreds more Kearney-based nursing and allied health professions students, positioning the university to better meet health needs in rural Nebraska, where shortages of health care workers are especially acute. The nursing and allied health expansion in Kearney was part of the university's Building a Healthier Nebraska initiative, which received state support in 2012. NU's 2014-15 operating budget includes $500,000 for faculty hires at the Health Science Education Complex to meet increased student demand.
- The Rural Futures Institute, a university-wide initiative focused on sustaining and enhancing the economy and quality of life in nonmetropolitan areas in Nebraska and beyond. A state investment would leverage the university's $500,000 investment in the Rural Futures Institute that was included in the 2014-15 operating budget.
- The National Strategic Research Institute, a university-wide initiative focused on supporting the mission of the United States Strategic Command to combat weapons of mass destruction. NU faculty associated with NSRI, established in 2012, are pursuing a number of critical projects to advance national security and in NSRI's first year attracted $9 million in contract funding to support their research.

- Other public-private partnerships that leverage the role of each NU campus as an economic driver for the surrounding community. The university is working to advance public-private partnerships on all four campuses.

Business Affairs

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: FY 2015-16 and FY 2016-17 Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture (NCTA) Biennial Operating Budget Request

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approve the FY 2015-16 and FY 2016-17 NCTA Biennial Operating Budget Request guidelines.

PREVIOUS ACTION: May 30, 2014 – A budget presentation was provided to the Board of Regents Business Affairs Committee.
March 21, 2014 – A budget presentation was provided to the Board of Regents Business Affairs Committee.

EXPLANATION: The NCTA’s 2015-17 biennial operating budget request plans to seek state support for core operations and strategic initiatives. The biennial budget requests are required to be submitted to the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education (CCPE) by August 15, 2014 and the Governor and Legislature by September 15, 2014.

Per historical practice, the university will not submit a formal salary request until after collective bargaining on the UNO and UNK campuses has concluded. For illustrative purposes, the university’s request shows scenarios for salary increases ranging from zero to three percent.

The proposed request seeks funding increases for core operations, including health insurance, information technology support, utilities and building operation and maintenance.

In addition, the request focuses on strategic investments critical to NCTA’s success, including:

- Over $320,000 to enhance faculty and staff salaries. This funding would be utilized to move salaries closer to peer and/or market averages and fund faculty and staff promotions and professional development.
- $100,000 to fund a staff veterinarian. NCTA has established a new program within the Veterinary Technology Systems Division called Comparative Medicine. The staff veterinarian will head the program, as well as oversee herd health for the cow-calf and horse herds, and other large animals in the NCTA teaching program.
- $55,000 to hire a meat science instructor. A new program focusing on food and meat science has been identified in the NCTA Strategic Plan for the Ag Production Systems Division curriculum. The instructor would teach NCTA students, instruct 4-H and FFA youth programs, and also serve as a resource to the food industry and to summer sessions for high school teachers. Potential exists for workforce development training as well, targeting small businesses and rural economic development.

- $100,000 for teaching resources to replace equipment in classrooms and laboratories.
- $50,000 to improve farm practicum technology and equipment used for teaching and maintaining the 300-acre agronomy land laboratory and 250-acre range laboratory.
- $150,000 to establish a capital outlay fund to be used in conjunction with potential 309 Commission funding for building renewal and other fire/life/safety facility projects.

TO: The Board of Regents Addendum IX-B-4
Business Affairs

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: University of Nebraska-Lincoln Banking Services License Agreement

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approve the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Banking Services License Agreement between UNL and Union Bank and Trust Company effective March 1, 2015

PREVIOUS ACTION: February 28, 2004 – The Board of Regents approved a Banking Services License and related Facilities Lease Agreements between UNL and Wells Fargo and Company effective March 1, 2004.

EXPLANATION: UNL has contracted for a full service branch bank in the City Campus Student Union for over 35 years. The current lease will expire in February, 2015. A request for proposals was issued to financial institutions doing business in Lincoln or Lancaster County. Union Bank and Trust Company provided the most responsive proposal as evaluated by a campus committee of faculty, staff and students.

The License Agreement, which combines the provisions of the existing lease and licensing agreements, grants Union Bank and Trust Company the right to operate a branch banking facility in the north addition to the City Campus Union, near existing food court providers. It also gives the Bank the right to install and operate eight ATMs on the UNL City and East Campus, Bank sponsorship recognition on the campus identification card back panel, and an exclusive presence at first year student activities such as New Student Enrollment. By terms of the Agreement, the Bank shall not issue credit cards that claim any relationship to the License Agreement.

The University has the right to extend this Agreement beyond the original eight-year term for three additional one-year increments. This License Agreement conforms to current terms of the Higher Education Act of 1964, particularly with respect to the disbursement of guaranteed student loan disbursements and other student financial aid. In the event changes in this federal law or any other federal, state or local laws necessitate a material change to the agreement terms, UNL and the Bank will negotiate changes in the Agreement to maintain compliance.

In return for this license, the Union Bank and Trust Company shall annually pay UNL:

$700,000	Royalty Payment
28,830	Branch Facility License
20,000	UNL Student Organization Support
30,000	NCard Program Support
$778,830

In addition, UNL shall receive payments based on ATM activity, estimated at $87,750 per year.

The agreement was discussed and is recommended for approval by the Business Affairs Committee. Regent Clare declared a conflict and did not participate in any portion of the discussion that resulted in the recommendation to the full Board.

Members of the public and the news media may obtain a copy of the proposed Agreement in the Office of the University Corporation Secretary, 3835 Holdrege Street, Lincoln, Nebraska 68583, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except University holidays.

SUBJECT: Purchase of replacements to nuclear magnetic resonance (NMR) systems

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Approve the purchase of 500MHz and 600MHz NMR systems

PREVIOUS ACTION: None

EXPLANATION: The proposed systems will replace equipment originally purchased in 2001 for the UNMC NMR facility. Bruker Biospin Corp. submitted the lowest responsible proposal to the University for this equipment. In several University bids over the last couple years, Bruker has presented quotes for equipment of better value and lower price than comparable equipment from competitors. For that reason, UNL, UNO and UNMC have purchased similar units in the last 5 years. Other collaborating universities also use Bruker NMR systems.

The purchase has been reviewed by and is recommended for approval by the Business Affairs Committee.

INVESTING IN NEBRASKA'S FUTURE

Strategic Planning Framework

2014-2016

The University of Nebraska is a four-campus, public university which was created and exists today to serve Nebraskans through quality teaching, research, and outreach and engagement. We strive to be the best public university in the country as measured by the impact we have on our people and our state, and through them, the world. To do that, we must compete effectively with other institutions around the world for talented students and faculty. The future of Nebraska is closely tied to that of its only public university, and this framework guides university-wide and campus planning to help build and sustain a Nebraska that offers its citizens educational and economic opportunity and a high quality of life.

The framework consists of six overarching goals emphasizing access and affordability, quality academic programs, workforce and economic development, research growth, engagement with the state, and accountability. Each goal has a number of related objectives, strategies and accountability measures developed for Board and university-wide monitoring over a multi-year period. Companion documents include an implementation tool with metrics and the schedule for monitoring by the Board, as well as a dashboard reflecting progress.

The university's efforts will not be limited to these priorities, as we expect to be able to measure progress in other areas given the interrelatedness of the objectives, other priorities of the Board and the President, and the ongoing strategic planning efforts of the four campuses. Campus plans are consistent with this framework and operate within its broader goals. Each campus has established a set of quality indicators that provide a means to evaluate achievement and momentum related to its principal objectives.

1. The University of Nebraska will provide the opportunity for Nebraskans to enjoy a better life through access to high quality, affordable undergraduate, graduate and professional education.
 - a. The university will strive to increase affordability and ensure qualified students are not denied access based on economic circumstances.
 - i. Secure state funding sufficient to support access to high quality programs.*

 - ii. Increase each campus’s undergraduate freshman-to-sophomore retention rate each year, with a goal of exceeding the average of its peer institutions.*
 - iii. Increase each campus’s undergraduate six-year graduation rate, with a goal of exceeding the average of its peer institutions.*
 - c. Increase the diversity of those who enroll at and graduate from the university, employing measures permitted by state and federal law.
 - i. Engage in partnerships with other higher education institutions, K-12, and the private sector to increase diversity of students who seek a post-secondary education, employing measures permitted by state and federal law.*
 - d. Expand lifelong educational opportunities, including those for non-traditional and transfer students.
 - e. Promote adequate student preparation for success in higher education.
 - i. Engage in pilot programs with Nebraska high schools for development of high school academies in partnership with the university.*

 - f. Develop and strengthen internship and service learning opportunities with business, education, government, military, and nonprofit organizations.
 - g. Engage in partnerships with government and the private sector to develop regional economic strength.
 - h. Pursue excellence in educational attainment aligned with the long-term interests of the state.
 - i. Analyze areas of future workforce demand, including job and self-employment opportunities in non-growth rural communities and economically disadvantaged urban areas, and strengthen or develop curricula and programs appropriate to the university in alignment with those areas.
 - ii. Develop educational programs that prepare students for the flexibility required to respond to the uncertainty of future workforce demands.

iii. Develop distance education and other educational programs that permit Nebraskans to prepare for jobs and opportunities to meet future workforce demands.

MEETING DATE: July 18, 2014

SUBJECT: Renaming the Master of Engineering to the Master of Engineering Management and reducing the required hours for graduation from 36 to 30 in the College of Engineering at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL)

RECOMMENDED ACTION: Report

PREVIOUS ACTION: October 23, 1998 – The Board approved a graduate program leading to the Master of Engineering at UNL

EXPLANATION: The proposal to rename the Master of Engineering to the Master of Engineering Management will result in a name that more accurately describes the scope of the program. It will be beneficial to prospective students as well as those evaluating credentials to emphasize that the curriculum has a management component. In addition, the proposal requests that the number of hours required for graduation be reduced from 36 to 30 to mirror competing programs across the nation and requirements for engineering licensure.

These proposed changes will allow effective marketing of the degree and a substantial growth in enrollment.

The proposal has been reviewed by the Council of Academic Officers and has been approved by the Executive Graduate Council.
