

A THANK YOU TO HUSKER FANS FROM PRESIDENT CARTER

The fall semester is a special time—an opportunity to welcome a new class of future leaders to our campuses. This fall especially, I am grateful to be part of the University of Nebraska family.

Watching our faculty, staff and students persevere through challenging times has reminded me of the qualities that make Nebraska so special: our work ethic, resilience, our common sense and care for others.

Our coaches and staff have also gone above and beyond this year in making it possible for our student-athletes to do what they love. As Nebraskans, we want to compete.

It's taken a great deal of preparation and teamwork to get us to this point. But that's how we succeed on the field, in the classroom and in life.

I'm proud of the commitment the Husker family has shown for their team and their university. We truly have the greatest fans in the world.

“Nebraska is special because we are ‘one team.’ As Coach Frost says, we have a unity of purpose here that sets us apart from everyone else.”

Thank you for your support of the Huskers and the University of Nebraska. Here's to the future!

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Ted".

TED CARTER
President, University of Nebraska