UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

CAMPUSES, INSTITUTES AND ADMINISTRATION

OVERVIEW

The University of Nebraska is the state's only public university system, made up of four campuses each with a distinct role and mission. Together the campuses enroll 51,000 students and employ 16,000 faculty and staff who serve the state and world through education, research and outreach.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA-LINCOLN

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is the flagship, Big Ten research university, home to more than 24,000 students and the storied Husker athletics program. Chartered in 1869, UNL was the original, land-grant campus of what would become the NU system. Reflecting the university's commitment to agriculture, UNL is also home to the Institute of Agriculture and Natural Resources, which houses the statewide Nebraska Extension network as well as the Nebraska College of Technical Agriculture in Curtis, which serves more than 200 students in two-year programs.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA MEDICAL CENTER

The University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha is the state's only public academic health sciences center. More than 4,000 students are enrolled at UNMC, including in highly ranked physician assistant, primary care, physical therapy, pharmacy, public health and other programs. UNMC's research and patient care in cancer and infectious diseases are also recognized around the world.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA AT OMAHA

The University of Nebraska at Omaha is Nebraska's metropolitan university, rooted in deep ties to Omaha and with a mission of access and affordability. Initially a municipal university, UNO joined the NU system in 1968 and today enrolls more than 15,000 students. UNO is known for its student-centered environment, community engagement and dedication to embracing students from all backgrounds.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA AT KEARNEY

The University of Nebraska at Kearney is a residential university focused on undergraduate education.

Previously the Nebraska State Teachers College, then Kearney State College, UNK became part of the NU system in 1991 and today enrolls more than 6,000 students who experience a private-school environment on a major public university campus.

INSTITUTES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA

The University of Nebraska also comprises four institutes that leverage the expertise of all four campuses to address key issues facing the state and world: The National Strategic Research Institute, which conducts national security and defense research through an exclusive partnership with the Department of Defense; the Daugherty Water for Food Global Institute, which works to address food insecurity with less stress on water resources; and the Buffett Early Childhood Institute, which is working to make Nebraska the best place in the nation to be a baby.

UNIVERSITY OF NEBRASKA ADMINISTRATION

The University of Nebraska is governed by an elected Board of Regents, whose eight members represent districts across the state. The four campus student body presidents also serve on the Board.

Reporting to the Board, the president of the University of Nebraska is the chief executive officer of the university system, responsible for carrying out the regents' strategic priorities and serving as the chief advocate to the Nebraska Legislature. Direct reports to the President include the system-wide chief business, academic, legal and information technology officers. Each campus is led by a chancellor who is the chief executive of that campus.
